MEAT INSPECTION BILL

Which Passed the Reichstag, Has Hygienic Features Eliminated.

BERLIN, slay 24.—The meat inspec-tion bill, which passed the reichstag yesterday, in the compromise form, had its essential hygienic features eliminated, owing to the agrarian influences at work in the chamber. In its final shape it contains no provision for trichinae inspection, and none for the in-spection of animals slaughtered for Toese were the two strong est hygienic features of the bill in its original form.

Nevertheless, the semi-official Berliner Correspondenz to-day compliments the majority in the reichstag, partic-ularly the moderate agrarians, upon its passage in its amended form, claiming that hygienic interests are sufficiently preserved, and that, incidentally, German agriculture will derive considerable benefit from the measure as it now able benefit from the measure as it now stands.

On the other hand, the leading agrarian organ, the Deutsche Tages Zeitung, flatly denies that the compromise bill will in any way ald agriculture, and asserts that the permission to import salt meats will be utilized hereafter by the United tSates to such an extent as to outwelgh the prohibition of sausages and canned meats. and canned meats.

MARTIN'S FERRY NEWS.

The Daily Chronicle of Wheeling's Progressive Neighbor.

A bad accident was narrowly averted last evening. A street car going up Center street had stopped several feet away from the Cleveland & Pittsburgh away from the Cleveland & Pittsburgh tracks, while the conductor went ahead to see if the coast was clear and looking hurriedly down the track saw no train approaching from the south and motioned for the motorman to advance before he saw the 6:20 train coming from the north. As soon as he noticed the approaching train he signaled to the motorman to stop and before the car could be brought to a standstill it was but a few feet distant from the tracks when the train went whizzing by. The passengers were badly scared, several leaving the car. Had it not been for the presence of mind of the motorman, who reversed the car in a hurry, a bad accident would surely have been the result. The same narrow escape occurred on Wednesday evening, through the carelessness of the conductor. This is indeed a very dangerous spot and should a car ever be hit by one of the fast trains on the railroad a bad catastrophe would be the result.

Last evening, as Mrs. Alexander Hood was on he way to the residence of her tracks, while the conductor went ahead bad catastrophe would be the result.

Last evening, as Mrs. Alexander Hood was on her way to the residence of her son, Norval, on Fifth street, she was suddenly taken ill and was compelled to sit down on the steps of the news stand, presumably for a few minutes' rest. Here she gradually became weaker and was found in this state by a passer-by. She was removed to the home of her son, where, in less than a minute's time, she was dead. Deceased was a highly respected resident of this city, and was about eighty years of age. No funeral arrangements had been made last evening.
